Obtain permission to reproduce any copyrighted materials. This includes any materials outside of the public domain: graphs, charts, logos (including hospital or university logos), screenshots, cartoons, audio, movie clips, etc. Cite permission on your slides and provide copies of correspondence granting permission where applicable.

You cannot use a university or hospital logo on your slides or handouts without providing documentation of the university's/hospital's permission. You can obtain permission by contacting your marketing department (emails are fine!). You can simply copy & paste the correspondence into a word document and upload it with your program materials.

Note about permissions for all logos, pictures, graphics, quotes, excerpts, etc.: Permission must be obtained for both the live presentation and for posting online after the conference. If partial permission is obtained, it must be indicated for which format permission has been provided.

If permission is not provided to APNA, content will be removed from the slides.
