APNA transitions in Practice

EARN 15 CONTACT HOURS & ENERGIZE YOUR PMH NURSING PRACTICE!

This online certificate program delivers the latest evidence-based knowledge and skills essential to providing psychiatric-mental health nursing care. You'll learn important info like how to:

Recognize when to set boundaries with patients and be aware of potential boundary crossing

Perform a risk assessment for suicide and communicate the risk and interventions to your team

Develop a safety plan with persons at risk for suicide or self-harm

Develop a trauma-informed, strengths-based, person-centered plan of care

Identify & monitor for common side effects and drug interactions of psychopharmaceuticals

Apply basic de-escalation techniques & concepts of cultural humility

"Very informative, clinically relevant and very practical. I would recommend it to any nurse practicing in mental health or who is aspiring to do so."

"A very good refresher, plus I learned new information to better myself and the patients I serve."

"I learned a number of things that will impact my practice...I feel more confident in my knowledge and awareness of best practice."

We have invested in APNA Transitions in Practice because we want to ensure that you have access to the most up to date evidence-based tools, strategies, and knowledge to help you succeed.
